

LONG-TERM RETARDANT CONTRACTS: BULK AND FULL SERVICE

8413

(September 2003)

As desired by the using agency, long-term retardant vendors can provide just the retardant concentrate (via a “bulk” contract), or the full ability to receive, store, mix, store, and load retardant (via a “full-service” contract). Using agencies determine which of these alternatives is most suitable for each base, considering the amount and condition of government-owned equipment at the base, the number of government employees available to perform the work, and the price of the retardant. All costs associated with full-service contracts are included in the price of the retardant.
