

TRAINING

9121

(1987)

Self-evaluation is a good starting point. If you are naturally a good speaker, there will be no problem. If not, several resources are available to strengthen your image: community colleges and state universities offer courses related to public speaking and writing; Toastmasters is a group, found in most communities, dedicated to helping one become a better public speaker; various state and local training seminars are offered annually to help in this area.

FORMS AND/OR FORMS SAMPLES: RETURN TO CDF LIBRARY HOME PAGE FOR FORMS/FORMS SAMPLES SITE LINK.

\(see next section\)

\(see Table of Contents\)