(1987)

Many visual resources are available to help complement your presentation. Videos, films, and slides are always of interest to people and are excellent for all size groups. If the group is large, a big screen television will be necessary. Slides should move rapidly to keep the attention of the audience and they should not run more than 15 minutes. CDF, other fire protection agencies, and private vendors are all sources of audio and visual materials. It is recommended that local units build and maintain their own video library and not be fully dependent on outside sources.
